

FAREWELL COMRADES!

Andrei NEKRASOV

*1958, Russia

Director of Farewell Comrades! TV-Series

Works as an independent filmmaker, writer and stage director based in Saint Petersburg and Helsinki. He accomplished several internationally coproduced documentaries and TV art programs. Among his greatest successes were "Springing Lenin" he received the UNESCO Award at Cannes Film Festival in 1993 for, with "Love is as Strong as Death" he won the FIPRESCI Prize in 1997, while his film "Lubov and Other Nightmares" was well received at Berlinale and Sundance and formed his image as rebel among Russian film-makers.

Filmography (selection):

- 2010 Russian Lessons, 100 min, Documentary
- 2007 Rebellion: the Litvinenko Case, 113 min, Documentary, Premiere: Festival de Cannes 2007
- 2007 My Friend Sasha: A Very Russian Murder, 60 min TV documentary on Alexander Litvinenko (BBC Four Storyville, 22 January 2007)[5]
- 2004 Disbelief, Feature documentary, 35 mm, 105 min, Dolby SRD, Dreamscanner Prod. Russia-USA (Watch Free on Google Video)
- 2002 Koenigsberg, Docudrama, HDCam, 120 min, Color and B/W, Dreamscanner, Russia-Germany
- 2001 Lubov and Other Nightmares, Feature, 35 mm, 97 min, Color and B/W, Dolby SR, Dreamscanner, Russia-Germany
- 2000 Children's Stories, Chechnya, documentary , Beta SP, 23 min, Vanessa Redgrave and Dreamscanner, UK-Russia
- 1997 Love is as strong as Death, Feature, 35 mm, 104 min, Dreamscanner, Russia-UK
- 1993 Springing Lenin, 35 mm, 23 min, Colour, British Film Institute - BBC
- 1991 The Prodigal Son, TV, 16 mm, 95min, Colour, BBC-La Sept-ZDF, UK-France-Germany
- 1990 Pasternak, TV, 35 mm, 90 min, Colour, ITV-WDR, UK-Germany-Russia
- 1989 Raising the Curtain, TV, documentary, 25 min, Channel 4
- 1988 The Millennium of Incredible Faith, TV, documentary, 16 mm, 60 min, Greek TV
- 1987 A Russia of One's Own, TV, 16 mm, 85 min, Colour, Channel 4