Pablo Greco is a bandoneon player, composer and arranger. His passion for the bandoneon arose very early in the hands of his father, a professional bandoneon player of the orchestras of the 1940s. At the age of 20 Pablo found his first orchestra, which made him the youngest director of Buenos Aires. He started working for the company Tango Danza Carlos Copes and was invited to play in the famous Cabaret Marabu. From then on travelled Cuba, Japan, Brazil, Israel and Europe playing with Antonio Gasalla, the CIPE Lincovsky, the Ballet de Tango y Folklore Miguel Saravia, the Beba Pugliese Orchestra Paisajes Argentinos, the Cuarteto E. Morgado and with his Pablo Greco Trio, Pablo Greco Quintet and Pablo Greco Sexteto. Pablo's son Lautaro followed the footsteps of his grandfather and father, which makes his family the only one with three generations of successful professional bandoneon players in Argentina.
