

NELSON MANDELA: THE MYTH & ME

Number of Images	Caption + Copyright
01_Mandela.jpg	Judge and activist Albie Sachs was able to forgive the man who tried to kill him with a bomb attack. © Mike Downie
02_Mandela.jpg	The Chilean writer Ariel Dorfman says we shouldn't fool ourselves – there is no reconciliation for the victims of the apartheid regime. © Alex Cullen
03_Mandela.jpg	Journalist Binyavanga Wainaina: the late Mandela was not considered a serious political figure anymore. © Guilio Biccari
04_ Mandela.jpg	Director Khalo Matabane writes a letter to Nelson Mandela asking him the questions he was contemplating his entire life. © Nicolaas Hofmeyer
05_ Mandela.jpg	The Dalai Lama believes in the power of affection to change peoples minds. © Kiran Reddy Katpalli
06_ Mandela.jpg	The German president Joachim Gauck was able to forgive a betrayer of the secret police. © Michael Hamon

GEBRÜEDER BEETZ FILMPRODUKTION

07_ Mandela.jpg	Nelson Mandela used to be Khalo Matabane's childhood hero. Today he questions Mandela's decisions. © Nicolaas Hofmeyer
08_ Mandela.jpg	Khlo Matabane traveled around the whole world to produce his film – he wanted to find out how Nelson Mandela's message is perceived in the world of today. © Oscar Gutierrez
09_ Mandela.jpg	Dr. Henry A. Kissinger didn't share most of Mandela's political decisions, but he admires his greatness. © Alex Cullen
10_ Mandela.jpg	Charity Kondile refused to forgive the murderer of her son at the truth and reconciliation commission in South Africa. © Roy Zetisky
11_ Mandela.jpg	Statue of Nelson Mandela in Sandton, Johannesburg. © Guilio Biccari
12_ Mandela.jpg	The child's feet symbolize the rebirth of South Africa after the apartheid. © Born Free Media

GEBRÜEDER BEETZ FILMPRODUKTION

13_ Mandela.jpg	Writer Nuruddin Farah doesn't believe in vengeance but rather in a dialogue between victims and perpetrators. © Mike Downie
14_ Mandela.jpg	Activist Pumla Gqola is convinced that there is no forgiveness without justice. © Guilio Biccari
15_ Mandela.jpg	Historian Tariq Ali states that Mandela was treated like a god – so he decided to behave like one and forgive. © Dirk Nel
16_ Mandela.jpg	During an interrogation Zubeida Jaffer was confronted with a decision: abort her child or betray fellow activists. © Nicolaas Hofmeyer
17_ Mandela.jpg	Khalo Matabane uses the image of burned trees to bring the violence to a symbolic level. © Born Free Media
18_ Mandela.jpg	In the film „Nelson Mandela: the myth & me“ the topics of violence and search for freedom play a central role. © Born Free Media
19_ Mandela.jpg	Nelson Mandela in front of different interview partners. © Gebrueder Beetz